THE MINT.

IT WILL BE OPENED WHEN SUFFICIENT BULLION
IS DEPOSITED.

Correspondence Between Senator Stewart and the Director of Mints.

EDITOR APPEAL:—You have already been informed of the fact that the usual appropriation for the Carson Mint passed Congress in the general appropriation bill. After the passage of the appropriation, Mr. Woodburn and myself called on the Secretary of the Treasury and the Director of the Mint, and prayed that the Mint be opened as a Mint.

I then saw the President and told him that in my opinion it was the duty of the Executive under the law, to run the establishment as a Mint and not as an assay office. I showed him the law, and pointed out the marked difference in the language between an assay office and a Mint. He said that what I said impressed him forcibly, and that he should examine the question. I again called on the Secretary and the Director, and attempted to show them that it was a violation of the law to reduce the Carson Mint to an assay office, after which the inclosed correspondence took place between myself, and the Secretary of the Mint:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT
BUREAU OF THE MINT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 17.

HON. WILLIAM M. STEWART.
SIR:—In answer to your inquiries as to the prospect for resuming full operations at the Mint at Carson I have to say, that the people of Nevada are now, and for some months have been, in possession of all the privileges of depositors of bullion the same as any other United States Mint or assay office.
In other words the depositor of crude gold bullion can receive, in cash, the value of the same as soon as it can be ascertained by assay, subject to no other charges than the regular Mint charges, the same as at San Francisco and other institutions of the Mint Service.

Since the temporary suspension of operations at the Mint at Carson under former rules of the Treasury Department, which were believed to have a damaging effect upon the business of this institution, and since these rules have been revoked at my instance, especially for the benefit of this Mint, few deposits have been made at the Mint. Yet it was reopened in November last upon the presentation of leading producers of bullion that their own product, and that of other producers, might be counted upon to afford sufficient business to keep the Mint in operation.

As to coining operations, it remains simply to be said that they can follow only a certain accumulation of bullion. Should the deposits of bullion amount to a sufficient quantity to warrant resumption of the operation of coining, it is my opinion that no obstacle will be opposed to such operation by the Treasury Department.

Coinage cannot be resumed until there is bullion enough to coin.
And if the bullion is not deposited in sufficient quantities to admit of coining as well as refining operations, it will be prima facie evidence that an institution like the Mint at Carson is not one of the necessities of Nevada. Very Respectfully, JAMES P. KIMBALL,
Director of the Mint.

HON. JAMES P. KIMBALL, SIR:— Your favor of the 17th inst. is received. I desire to ask you one further question. You say that gold bullion will be received at the Carson Mint and paid for in cash.
What will be done with silver bullion and bullion containing gold and silver. Yours Respectfully, WM. M. STEWART.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
BUREAU OF THE MINT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21.

Hon. W. M. Stewart, U. S. Senate, Washington, D. C. SIR:—Replying to your favor of the 19th instant, you are respectfully informed that deposits of silver bullion will be received at the Mint at Carson for return in unparted, fine or standard bars, the same as at the Mint at San Francisco.

In the case of deposits of gold containing silver, the silver, as well as the gold, is paid for in cash.
Purchasers of date silver are made when required for the purposes of the refinery.

Very respectfully,
JAS. P. KIMBALL,
Director of the Mint.
From the foregoing letters the present state of the Mint can be understood. The Director further assured me that when a sufficient amount of bullion was accumulated under the foregoing conditions, upon which to start the Mint for coinage, it would be started.

THE PUBLIC BUILDING.
I am informed by the Supervising Architect, (Mr. Bell) that the only reason why the foundation of the building was not contracted for last Winter, was because all the bids were regarded as too high. He told me that the plans and specifications for the whole building would soon be completed, and then a contract would be let to the lowest bidder for the whole work. The outside bidders would compete for a contract of that magnitude, but none but local bidders, competed for the foundation. There is no question but that the building will be ultimately built. The appropriation does not lapse, but continues good until the work is done.

STATE LANDS.
Mr. Young and I presented to the Commissioner of the General Land Office the Act of our Legislature exempting mineral lands from State sales. He said he thought it a very wise law, and very necessary to preserve the mines for the miners. But he still insisted that it was his duty under the law of Congress in every instance to obtain proof that the land is not mineral before listing it to the State. The Commissioner, in my opinion, is a real friend to the settler. He sees so much in the administration of our land system that he believes to be wrong that he is being slow to act in every case.

IDAHO ANNEXATION.
I have had a very satisfactory talk with the President with regard to the necessity of enlarging Nevada, and so disposing of the other Territories so as to make the new States comparatively equal. He fully recognizes the importance of the questions involved. He desired a full conference with me before the meeting of Congress, and expressed a willingness to aid in such a division of the remaining Territories as will remove the growing discontent on account of the unequal representation in the Senate.
The President is a strong man, but labors under great disadvantage in administering laws over so vast a country, so small a part of which he has seen. He has one splendid quality, he is a good listener, and learns fast. I have great hope of success in enlarging Nevada. The necessity is plain to everyone who cares for harmony and good feeling among the States of the Union.

The Bomb Shell Dropped.

Recently J. Baum & Co. failed in San Francisco and his stock was sold at auction. A.
Bergman of this city was lucky enough to secure $5,000 worth of clothes. The sum paid was less than half the value of the goods. The stock arrived yesterday and this is the bombshell that Bergman promised some weeks ago to drop into the market.

Death of Old Isaac.

On Sunday old Isaac, a boot-black who has made nearly every man's boots in Nevada shine like a mirror, passed away.
He was rated at 100 years old and known and respected by everybody. Before dying he gave his valuables to Rev. G. R.
Davis with instructions to provide for his funeral.

For the People.

No plan in existence equals the method the Home Library Association of Chicago has adopted to supply books of every description to its members, at the lowest possible prices.

In another column appears the advertisement of the Home Library Association.

The Minstrels.

Baird's Minstrels, which appear here on Wednesday, is the largest burnt cork troupe that has ever entered Carson.

—The recovery of the wife of ex-Sheriff Swift, of Carson, who for some time past has been an inmate of a California insane asylum, is considered certain.

None Should Miss Hearing Them

The famous McGibney Family will appear at the Opera House on the evening of the 7th instant.
Their performances comprise a grand line of musical specialties Speaking of their appearance at the Alcazar Theater in San Francisco recently, the Chronicle says:
"The McGibney Family, consisting of 15 members, all more or less musical, made its first appearance here last night before an audience that filled the house."

The programme presented introduced the family as an orchestra, as a band, as instrumental soloists, as singers and as comedians of a mild type. Of the solo selections the best was a cornet fantasia played with a good deal of dexterity by Frank McGibney, and the second nocturne of Ernst played on the violin by Mr. Hugh, who displayed a very promising technique with much feeling. The orchestra music was remarkable.
When the family devoted itself to brass it became a band that could furnish some really inspiring music. Nothing was amateurish or slipshod, and, altogether, especially when it is known that the performers run from McGibney pere, down to a tot of four years old, the entertainment may be considered one of unusual merit.

Reserved seats now on sale at Tobriner's Cigar Stand.
